

CCTU SIGNS MOU WITH PRIMESEC GHANA LTD FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF HOSTEL FACILITY FOR THE UNIVERSITY

Cape Coast Technical University (CCTU) has signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with Primesec Ghana Limited to construct students' hostel to accommodate the rising number of students on campus.

The Vice-Chancellor, Rt. Rev. Ing. Prof. J. D. Owusu-Sekyere, was appreciative to Primesec Ghana Ltd. for expressing interest to collaborate with CCTU to construct a hostel facility for students. He indicated that the issue of accommodation has always been a prime concern to the University.

Mr. Josie Charles, the CEO/President of Primesec, stated that the company shares in the accommodation challenges of the University, and promised that the company was ready to mobilise the needed resources for the construction of an ultra-modern student hostel to help alleviate the accommodation challenge of the University.

CHIEF OF KAKUMDO TRADITIONAL AREA CALLS ON CCTU VICE-CHANCELLOR

A delegation from the Kakumdo Community led by Nana Kofi Ebu IV, who is the Chief of Kakumdo and Gyasehen of the Oguua Traditional Area, paid a courtesy call on the Vice-Chancellor on March 18, 2021.

In brief remarks, Opanyin Blankson, the spokesperson for the chief, disclosed that the visit was to express their sincere appreciation to the Vice-Chancellor for his support during the installation of Nana Kofi Ebu IV. He also affirmed that the visit was to establish a good relationship between the people of Kakumdo community and CCTU.

The Regional Chairman of the Ghana Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Opoku Aikins, who was part of the delegation, also touched on some key areas where the people of Kakumdo would need the support of the University. He indicated that:

- Through research and innovation, CCTU could help find a solution to the sanitation issues at Kakumdo.
- Again, he made an appeal to the Management of CCTU for ICT personnel to help man an ICT Centre built by a philanthropist for the people of Kakumdo.
- The Regional Chairman of the Ghana Chamber of Commerce made a submission that Management should remember people of Kakumdo when engaging new staff.
- Touching on the needy but brilliant students, Mr. Opoku Akins sought the assistance of the Management of CCTU to have a support scheme for students who hail from Kakumdo.

On his part, the Vice-Chancellor, Rt. Rev. Ing. Prof. J. D. Owusu-Sekyere expressed his profound gratitude to the delegation for their zeal to support the University in achieving its mandate. He further indicated that CCTU looks forward to an enhanced fruitful and cordial relationship with the people of Kakumdo.

In his remarks, Nana Kofi Ebu

IV, stated that he had established an Education Fund to help brilliant but needy students of the Kakumdo community. He further indicated that he was committed to partnering with the University to make available their expertise to the community in various capacities, for mutual benefit. He further pledged his unflinching support for the University to ensure that both parties leave a legacy for CCTU and the people of Kakumdo.

Present at the meeting were the Registrar and the Director of Internal Audit of CCTU and some elders from the Kakumdo community.

OFFICIALS FROM PRUDENTIAL BANK LIMITED CALL ON THE VICE-CHANCELLOR

Some officials from the Prudential Bank Ltd., led by Managing Director, Mr. John K. Addo, paid a courtesy call on the Vice-Chancellor, Prof. J. D. Owusu-Sekyere. The spokesperson of the delegation, Mr. John K. Addo, who is also the Managing Director of Prudential Bank Ltd., indicated that the visit was to introduce their range of banking products and services to the Management of the University. It was also to establish a good relationship between CCTU and Prudential Bank.

Mr. Ebow Quayson, the Executive Head of Business, Accra Branch (Head Quarters), took the meeting through some of the bank's wide range of products. He also disclosed that the bank would continue to do its part to meet the financial and corporate goals of the University.

The Vice-Chancellor on the other hand remarked that the University really appreciates the visit. He added that Management would take strong consideration to working with the bank.

In his closing remarks, the leader of the team

Mr. John K. Addo, thanked the Management of the University for making time to meet with them and assured the University of their total support as it strives to grow its fortunes.

Also present at the meeting was the University Advocate, John Assan Benson Esq.

Other officials from the Prudential Bank Ltd present at the meeting were Mr. Eric Appau, Branch Manager, Cape Coast; Mrs. Akosua Boahen, Head of Marketing; Mr. Thomas Broni and Mr. Benjamin Darko.
